On July, 14th 2020, Switzerland and Liechtenstein signed a Protocol amending the already enforced double taxation convention. This agreement aims to properly adopt BEPS minimum standard. It follows the welcoming of an anti-abuse rule as well as the embedding of the mutual agreement procedure. Since the two countries have both signed the MLI convention, already covering each other, the choice to address the same issues through such an agreement is quite interesting. Prof. Dr. Martin Wenz, Institut für Finance, University of Liechtenstein, will discuss these issues.
